The Spiritual Energy of the Days

The days of the week have spiritual and magical energies which if harnessed can be used to bring better results for your plans and activities. Each day is ruled by one of the traditional planets of our solar system and has attributes beyond just a day on the calendar.

Each day has a psychic vibration which works on the spiritual as well as physical plane. These vibrations or energies in the day can be used to boost the area of your life you want to focus on. You can harness a particular day's energy by using its ruling colour to decorate your home, using coloured note paper and pens to write affirmations with, wearing clothes in your chosen colour and energy rituals.

A simple way of tuning into the energy of the day is through candles and visualisation. Light a candle in the colour you want to use (like yellow on Sunday before an exam for example). Focus on the flame as you slowly and deeply breathe in and out. Visualise yourself breathing in the positive energy and focus your mind on the area you want to improve – love, money, spiritual growth etc. Do this for as long as you can – be patient if you can't hold it for long to begin with, it will become easier with practice.

Below is a list of days and their psychic attributes and colour. I recommend always using white in addition to any other colour to keep the energy aligned with the positive and for protection – especially when using candles.

Planet: Moon

Metal: Silver

Deities: Thoth, Selene

Gemstones: Pearl, Opal, Moonstone

Herbs & Plants: Wintergreen and other mints, catnip, comfrey, sage, chamomile

Monday is dedicated to the moon and all her magic and mystery. Mondays are for women's mysteries, illusion, prophetic dreaming, emotions, travel, and fertility. Wearing silver or pearl jewellery will help you to attract the Moon's energies.

Colour: White. White is all of the colours in the spectrum combined, and is a purifying, cleansing and restorative colour. A lot of people recommend using a white candle in addition to every other colour to keep the energy positive and for its protective qualities. It is the multi-purpose colour – when in doubt use white! Use white to nurture creativity, bring optimism and success, and bring light and positive energy to all those around you.

Colour: Black. When used for positive purposes, black is excellent for ending anything that is bad for you – like an addiction to cigarettes or not being able to free yourself emotionally from a past relationship for example.
